Notes of Interest From State Museum

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Santa Fe, May 18.—J. P. Adams, of Santa Fe, and A. R. Frisbie, editor of The Messenger, of Canon City, Colo., today became members of the Archaeological society.

"Santa Fe, thy name is Publicity," one might well exclaim. If there is any virtue in publicity, surely Santa Fe ought to have its reward before long. No city has ever been advertised as Santa Fe is being advertised. The latest publicity that doesn't cost Santa Fe a cent is the leading article in the Santa Fe Magazine for May, profusely and beautifully illustrated. Even the cover shows the old Esplanade Trail, with Santiago Naranjo, of Santa Clara, following its groove, while the frontispiece shows the Deeds mission as restored by Jesse Nussbaum. Then there is the Denver Times of Monday evening, with two columns of an interview with F. A. Wadsworth on his recent visit to the cliff dwellings. The story starts with a big heading in the first column of the first page, The Rio Grande Service Gazette for May also gives half a column to the Bandelier National Monument. Then there is an eight-page illustrated folder, printed in brown, by the "Cliff Cities Pack Outfitters," who undertake to guide select parties all over the Cliff Dwelling region and make their headquarters at the Los Alamos ranch. Something like 25,000 of these nifty folders are to be mailed to select addresses. Part of the same day's harvest are the fine posters just printed in which 12 J. Ward advertisers personally conducted tours of the Cliff Dwelling region and to the other wonders round about Santa Fe. The posters are embellished with two photographic views of landscapes among the cliff dwellings and on the upper Pecos.

NEWS NOTES from BY DAISY DEAN

MOVIELAND

Photoplay fans who remember G. M. Anderson and his famous "Broncho Billy" series, will not fail to recall the delightful little lady who played opposite him in his cowboy pictures. She is Marguerite Clayton, and since Anderson quit pictures she has been playing leads in multiple-episode features like "A Daughter of the City" and "Vultures of Society."

Miss Clayton is an extremely pretty girl with a remarkable head of golden hair and with blue eyes. She was born in Salt Lake City in 1898, and upon graduating from convent school in 1913 was almost immediately engaged by Anderson for the feminine lead in the western dramas. Late in 1915 she was transferred to the Esplanade studio in Chicago.

Miss Clayton finds the saddle her principal pleasure. She is known about the studios as the girl with the million-dollar smile. Her motto is "Keep Smiling."

CHAMPION "NUT" HAS BEEN FOUND

Of all the various brands of "nuts" the action picture scenario writing "nut" stands supreme. Like any other film star Clara Kimball Young receives hundreds of queer manuscripts fondly labeled "scenarios" but one that came in last week deserves special attention. In fact it wasn't a scenario but a letter about one entitled "Detained in a Mad House, or the Adventures of Bessie."

The writer didn't send the story, he said, because he didn't trust the mails.

"But," he said, "if you want to come and see me I will read it to you." The postmark was Lebanon, Pa.

The man who teaches the science of staying on top of the water, or living beneath the surface, is indeed one to be envied at Santa Barbara. All the charming little leading ladies visit the "Baths" regularly each afternoon, don their attractive though businesslike suits, and learn to swim.

Gladya Hanson is married to Charles Emerson Cook. The wedding took place in Atlanta, Ga. Mr. and Mrs. Cook will live in New York.

Marguerite Courtot lives in a bungalow at Jacksonville, Fla., with her mother and sister, not far from the Gaiety studio.

It is estimated that 1,000,000 people trace the source of their income to photoplays.

Marguerite Clayton.

She is favorably known for her work in "A Daughter of the City" and "Vultures of Society," high class multiple-episode photoplays, also for her work opposite G. M. Anderson in the "Broncho Billy" series.

Sonia Owen, the Fine Arts actress, is taking a short vacation, resting in the hills of Colorado.

SOLDIERS' FAMILIES WILL BE LOOKED AFTER BY RED CROSS SOCIETY

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Roswell, N. M., May 18.—The families of members of Battery A will be well taken care of while the battery is doing patrol duty on the border. This question will be taken up at a meeting of the Red Cross society Thursday night and plans made to provide for those needing assistance. A special campaign for membership in the Red Cross society has been waged this week and it is thought that by Thursday more than a hundred new members will have been added.

"Roswell is proud of her battery and will do the right thing by the men who are making a big sacrifice by leaving their homes and businesses," said Col. J. W. Wilson today. "The question of providing for the families of battery members will be taken up Thursday night. We do not look upon this assistance as charity in any sense but rather we feel that it is our duty. Although many business enterprises have been crippled by taking so many prominent men out of the city, the men who have gone are sacrificing more than any of the rest of us."

Word received from members of the battery say that the health of Roswell boys is good. The general complaint in that the most disagreeable feature in the camp is the wind which they say has been blowing a gale. The recruiting stations are being kept open and new men are being added to the list each day. Nearly 500 Roswell men are now in the field.

INSTITUTE NOW ALL READY FOR COMMENCEMENT

Close of Most Successful Year in History of New Mexico Military School Will Be Brilliant Affair.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)

Roswell, N. M., May 18.—The 1916 commencement of the New Mexico Military Institute, which will begin officially next Sunday with the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon, will be unusually brilliant, bringing to a close as it does, the most successful session that the institute has ever known. Preparations are being made for the entertainment of a large number of visitors from different cities of the state, and it is expected that Roswell will be well filled with out-of-town people during the period of the commencement.

The nation-wide campaign for preparedness which has occupied the attention of the public for months past has served to call sharp attention to the fact that right here in New Mexico is one of the best military institutions in all the United States, and to emphasize the excellent work that is being done at Roswell, not only in giving the students the necessary equipment for military duty but also in developing them physically and fitting them for whatever vocation in life they may be called upon to follow. The recent figures given out as to the increase in weight and measurements of the members of the battalion from September to April were highly illuminating on this point, and have caused widespread comment among advocates of physical training all over the state.

Ready for Border.

The call issued by the president for the national guard of the three border states of New Mexico, Arizona and Texas for service in patrolling the Mexican border around the students of the institute to the highest degree of enthusiasm, and it was with the greatest difficulty that a large number of the young men could be restrained from leaving the school before the end of the term and joining some one of the national guard commands. Several of the students whose homes are in Roswell were already members of Battery A, and those were compelled to join their command when the battery left for the border. It is expected that immediately after the close of the school year a number of the young men will enlist in the national guard, and it is not unlikely that a separate company will be formed out of the students of the New Mexico Military Institute.

Prospects for an increased enrollment at the institute for the session of 1916-1917 are unusually bright. The advantages offered by the institute have been so forcibly demonstrated and in so many ways that the school is now enjoying the greatest popularity it has ever known, and the probability is that it will be necessary when the next legislature assembles to ask for an appropriation for additional barracks buildings to accommodate the increased number of students that are expected.

In addition to the academic exercises that will feature commencement week, the social events will be unusually brilliant. Beginning with the commencement hop Friday night and continuing through the entire commencement period, there will be one round of gaieties of the sort that only military men can give. The number of distinguished visitors who will be present with their wives and daughters will lend an added importance to these events, and it is safe to say that from every point of view the 1916 commencement will be one long to be remembered by those who attend it.

Guard to Escort Wagon Trains.

Santa Fe, May 18.—The New Mexico military will be employed mainly to escort wagon and auto trains into the interior of Mexico, according to letters received here today from Columbus. However, the men must first undergo a physical examination and it is feared that if the examination is rigid many of the boys will be returned home.

Santa Fe, May 18.—Incorporation papers were filed today by the Cash Lumber company of Raton. The capitalization is $5,000. The incorporators and directors are: Matthew, Anton and Joseph Jago of Raton, the first named being designated statutory agent.
